Bishop's Foreword

2013 is a significant year in both political jurisdictions within the Diocese of Derry and Raphoe.

The UK City of Culture designation will raise Londonderry's international profile as well as increasing the number of visitors who come to experience the city's many cultural riches and planned events. 'The Gathering' in the Republic of Ireland should see a growth in the number of visitors to Co Donegal and will develop further links around the world.

Churches are an important part of life in each jurisdiction, and we wish to continue to make a significant contribution to the health and wellbeing of the communities of which we are a part.

This Diocesan Directory makes information about the diocese and its parishes easily accessible to those in the community as well as in the church who need this information. Useful contact details of clergy and office-holders are available here and I am grateful to everyone listed in the pages which follow for the generous way in which they serve God and their neighbour.

Many thanks to Canon David Crooks for his good work as editor and compiler and to the printers and advertisers who make its publication possible. The contribution each of them has made is very much appreciated.

We look forward to an exciting year in 2013.

† Ken Derry and Raphoe

Bishop of Derry and Raphoe

The Right Reverend Kenneth Raymond Good, B.A. Hons (Nottm), M.Ed., H.Dip.Ed., D.P.S.

2013 – A YEAR OF GROWTH?

Napoleon Bonaparte was undoubtedly one of the greatest military strategists of all time. Promoted to the rank of General at the age of just 26 he proved himself by winning many battles. The Duke of Wellington, one of the General's most formidable enemies, said, "I consider Napoleon's presence in the field to equal forty thousand men in the balance."

Once, he addressed an opponent he had defeated; "I will tell you the mistake you have made; you draw up your plans the day before battle, when you do not know your adversary's movements." Napoleon recognised in his losing opponent a weakness that he himself did not have; lack of adaptability. If we are willing to change and adapt to new circumstances then we shall not easily be overcome whatever the circumstances.

At the heart of our Transforming Community: Radiating Christ programme there has been this challenge to our parishes to be adaptable and to be ready to change in the light of new circumstances. It hasn't been about the kind of change which is merely change for change's sake but rather about the kind of change that goes right to the very heart of the Christian gospel:

- ▶ When God saw a world gone astray and he responded by entering himself into that world to redeem and restore he was effecting massive change:
- ▶ When Jesus met a motley crew of 12 fishermen and challenged them to "follow me!" and they did – they were responding in a way that meant radical change:
- ▶ When He issues the same challenge today and we respond, whether in baptism, confirmation or in any other way, we are saying "Yes!" to change in our lives.

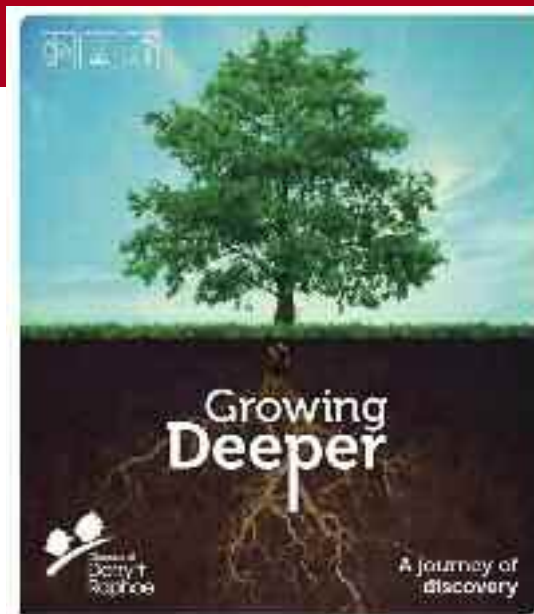

The original Transforming Community was launched about 5 years ago and has enabled many of our parishes to think about how God might want them to change in the light of the challenges we all face in today's world. Like Napoleon many of us have come to see that adaptability is a key skill for survival and success. It's probably fair to say that Transforming Community has started to shake things up in most parishes.

But the thing about this kind of change is this - it never stops! As someone once said, "Change is here to stay!" The call to Christian discipleship is a call to continual change and renewal. That's why our diocese is about to embark on the next stage of our Transforming Community journey. After 2013 will see the launch of three new strands:

GROWING DEEPER

Starting in January we will be launching an initiative to encourage people within the diocese to begin a common journey of faith in the form of a daily rhythm of prayer. An 80-page booklet will have a variety of material for each day of the month. People can use just one little bit of it or choose a variety of ways to go that little bit deeper. It recognises that everyone engages with God in a different way. Some find words helpful; others prefer pictures or music. Some feel closer to God in solitude and quiet; others when involved in a project of social justice.

This resource has been produced by a variety of people from within the diocese and so is something that is unique to Derry and Raphoe. Drawing on a rich variety of traditions it aims to be something that leads to action and reflection throughout the day, to real transformation.

The booklets will be arriving in parishes in mid-January along with some guidelines as to how to help people get the most out of it.

GROWING CLOSER

A survey conducted in our diocese in the early part of 2012 revealed that, with exceptions, we are not very good at engaging with each other in terms of our faith. We are not very comfortable with the typical small group culture or with the ideas of Bible "study". So starting in Lent 2013 parishes will be encouraged to get people interacting together in a whole new way. It won't be about "study" but will take into account that people learn in different ways. It will not be like a lecture from the front but will, ideally, be led jointly by a group of people. Each group that wishes to use the material will be able to choose from a menu of options to suit individual needs. The material will be available at the start of the year and there will be an evening in February to support those who will lead it.

Another part of the Growing Closer stream is to offer resources for greater participation in worship. Parishes will have access to material that can be used within the existing framework of worship – interactive talks, dramatised reading, creative prayers etc. Sometimes just doing one thing differently can give a whole new angle to worship and help bring liturgy even more alive.

GROWING WIDER

Bishop Ken has challenged all our parishes to risk doing one thing in 2013 that will take us to a whole new place in terms of how people in our community see what church is. All sorts of exciting initiatives are springing up in various parts of the Church in Ireland - Messy Church, Café Congregations, Church Plants etc. If you have no idea what these things are you can find out at either of two diocesan meetings on 25 and 26 January. No-one is saying that this is how it should be done in your parish. But you might just get the germ of an idea of something that could make a real difference.

Napoleon Bonaparte was a great military leader because he recognised that what had happened in the past might not work in the present and was adaptable enough to respond to the ever-changing situation. Transforming Community 2013 offers all of us, as individuals as well as churches, a great opportunity to work out how God wants us respond to the challenges and opportunities that face us in today's world.

Youth Work in Derry and Raphoe

www.dry-youth.org

Martin Montgomery

The date was the 27th May, a Sunday and my first ever engagement as diocesan youth officer. Convoy was the location and occasion was the Summer RDYC praise service and BBQ. From that date till now it has been all systems go.

I was incredibly fortunate to be able to overlap with Julie Ryan in the diocesan office for the first couple of weeks in post. She helped to initiate me into all things Derry and Raphoe, point me in the right direction and give me lots of useful tips for the journey. Though I only worked with her for a very short time, I know how highly regarded she is among the young people and parishioners in the dioceses and I add my voice to all others wishing her, Richard and new-baby Ryan all the best for the future, while thanking her for her hard work while she covered this post.

The youth department is focussed on three major themes; events, resourcing youth work and encouraging youth leaders. To this end we have co-ordinated residential youth weekends, youth leader retreats, fun days out, attending Summer Madness and On The Move – including a reunion to distribute Christmas cards around the parish of Castlederg as our last gathering of 2012.

2013 promises to be just as busy with our marquee event being ‘On The Move’ (OTM) in Londonderry for the city of culture. We are working closely with Summer Madness and other constituent agencies and youth work providers in the city to deliver our biggest ever gathering of ‘Movers’. We hope to target 5 key areas around the city, flood them with young people, and surprise them with random acts of kindness. OTM is as much about discipleship of young people as it is about doing good works. In doing something for nothing, valuable lessons about the concept of grace are learned, that is doing something for someone you don’t know, with no expectation of anything in return.

In the first six months of being in post, I have visited the clergy and preached in 17 parishes (25 different church services), thus gaining an appreciation of the diversity and depth of churchmanship in our diocese. I have to say I could not have done it without my trusty Sat Nav. However I am slowly beginning to feel like I know my way around the place.

One of my priorities in post is to get the message out there. By this I mean ensuring that clergy and parishioners, young and old alike are fully informed of what the youth department is doing, and how they (you) can be supportive. I regularly update the website and social media, alongside producing a monthly clergy email update filled with news, announcements and most importantly prayer points. (This email update is also available for anyone who would like to receive it – simply email martin@derryandraphoe.org to be added to the list.) Without a firm undergirding of prayer, our good works with our young people will simply remain as just that. Now more than ever, youth work in our dioceses needs to be supported and upheld in prayer as less and less people feel inclined or able to work with young people – without leaders there is no youth work, without leaders young people have no one to show them what it looks like to be a Christian. Without leaders – youth work in our churches is dead. (James 2. 14-26)

Were I to write four more paragraphs you would take 2 minutes to read them. Instead I will finish here, but would ask you to scan the prayer points below and use those 2 minutes I have saved you to choose a few points listed below to pray for our youth leaders and young people. There is nothing more important than this.

Please join us in praying for:

Diocesan Youth Officer, Board & Council Members

For vision and wisdom to lead, equip and support our diocese in youth work
For protection of those in leadership from all forms of attack
For continued reliance upon the Holy Trinity to lead and direct the work

Existing Youth Leaders

To know that their work is vital in the Kingdom of God
That they would feel encouraged and inspired to continue volunteering
That they would be blessed by the relationships they build with young people
That their faith would deepen and grow through their service to the church
That leaders would see the needs of today’s young people, and offer support

New Youth Leaders

That new leaders would step forward to reach our young people
That feelings of inadequacy or attitudes of being ‘too old’ would be seen for what they are – lies of the enemy!
That new leaders would emerge from all demographics of church – that we don’t simply expect young people to lead themselves – they need wise heads and experience too!

Young people

That young people would know that they are vital, important, needed, wanted, loved by God, and that they primarily see this through their churches.
That young people would be proud to call themselves Christians and would be able to live out their faith wherever they find themselves
That the pressures of school, exams, social media, bullying, other people’s expectations would not seem like too much to bear. That young people would always seek help in times of hardship, and would be able to find this in their churches.
Thank you for reading this, and thank you for joining us in praying for youth work in our diocese.

Martin
